We buy hay for our overseas customers, and we want to meet you! The Gombos Company is a family-owned alfalfa export company with industry leadership dating back to 1978. We are members of the U.S. Forage Export Council, National Hay Association, and CAFA. We started The Gombos Company to continue our family legacy of customer-focused, long-term relationship alfalfa business to support the growing global dairy and animal feed industries. Our company is led by a skilled management team that built one of the largest, most innovative hay supply chains in the world. The Gombos Company currently exports "Global Select" sun-cured alfalfa through our Pacific Central Division facility in northern California through the Port of Oakland, our Pacific Northern Division facility in Washington State through the Ports of Seattle and Tacoma, and our Pacific Southern Division facility in Arizona through the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach. Please visit our booth to learn more about our international agribusiness and what we mean by "export quality" when it comes to alfalfa.
